Pilot 04 results summary

1. Pilot 04. EAA developed the Future of Labour pilot entitled Status quo 2024: Drawing Architecture. The Pilot consisted of two events: a preparatory seminar (15 Feb 2024) and Workshop (01-04 May 2024). Four teams and two experts participated in the workshop.

Four main themes were discussed and tested:

- The future of labour in design-based disciplines (particularly in architecture) in the context of AI.
- The climate change influencing the future work of architects.
- The different architectural languages influencing the future work of architects.
- The different directions were tested in a planning project.

As the result of the workshop several outputs were achieved:

2. Pilot 04 brief and explanatory text was compiled. It is available on the SURF drive.

3. Pilot 04 seminars and lectures were edited into podcasts for continuous professional development and master level students. The podcasts are available on SURF drive for the internal use of research network participants and on the EAA website for wider audience. The podcasts are about 12 academic hours of listening and watching the galleries. With the forthcoming interviews the podcasts create a study course approximately 1 - 1.5 ECTS points.

4. Jüri Soolep has written an article on the bases of the Pilot 04 workshop (ca 54 000 characters with spaces)

5. Pilot 04 includes interviews with leading European level politicians of Estonia to describe the context for the future of labour in the field of design-based disciplines. The interviews are ongoing.

6. Pilot 04 dissemination. The workshop and seminars initiated 3 events for Estonian architects and designers as well as wider public interested in current situation of AI, planning and climate change. The events were called EAA Climate seminars. The first two seminars have been recorded and made public in podcasts format on the EAA webpage (187 subscribers) and YouTube channel.

- EAA seminar 1. 49 people visited the event on April 3, 2024. About 100 views on youtube channel.
